Overview

As a board certified labor and employment attorney, Holly Griffin Goodman focuses her practice on counseling clients, from small businesses to large institutions, in everyday employment matters. Starting with the hiring process through discipline and termination, Holly's goal is to help businesses manage their employees, and balance the interests of the business with obligations under federal, state, and local employment laws.

With clients from industries across the spectrum including insurance, telecommunications, sports and entertainment, healthcare, and hospitality, Holly's depth and breadth of experience includes:

- Internal investigations into allegations of discrimination or harassment
- Defense of claims before the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, Florida Commission on Human Relations, or local agency
- Defense of litigation in state or federal court for claims of discrimination or retaliation
- Advice on hiring, disciplining or firing employees
- Advice on navigating laws related to requests for leave, including under the FMLA, ADA, and Florida Civil Rights Act
- Advice on navigating requests for accommodations under the ADA, Pregnancy Discrimination Act, or Florida Civil Rights Act
- Negotiation of amicable separations for departing employees
- Preparation of agreements including: employment agreements, independent contractor agreements, separation agreements, non-disclosure agreements, and non-compete or non-solicitation agreements
- Execution of wage and hour audits
- Defense of wage and hour claims

Holly strives to consider each issue from all angles before giving advice or reacting in litigation. She is dedicated to being responsive and thorough, and focused on delivering robust advice to clients as they navigate their most challenging employee affairs.

Holly is on the Foundation Board for the Achievement Centers for Children and Families, currently serving as Board Chair.

She is Vice-Chair of the firm's Women's Leadership Forum and a member of the Mentoring Committee.
