Overview

Joseph Santoro is a shareholder who joined Gunster in 2002 and serves on the firm's board of directors. He is one of the founding members and, for more than a decade, served as the chair of Gunster's Labor & Employment practice.

Joe is an experienced trial lawyer who represents clients in courts throughout the country in a variety of high-profile litigation matters including complex partnership disputes, fiduciary litigation, contract litigation, corporate theft and employee embezzlement, misappropriation of corporate opportunity claims, and numerous other significant business related litigation matters where he has obtained multimillion dollar jury verdicts and arbitration awards in favor of clients.

Although Joe has diverse litigation experience, his practice focuses extensively on defending business clients and executives in employment-related disputes including executive contract disputes, non-compete litigation, discrimination and harassment cases, wage and hour litigation, whistleblower claims, wrongful termination cases, employee leave claims, and employee theft and trade secret litigation.

Joe's courtroom experience makes him a trusted business counselor and advisor to clients, who understand that knowing what it takes to successfully defend cases in court is crucial to making correct decisions so that costly litigation can be avoided. Joe's experience allows him to provide valuable advice, counseling and training to business clients regarding a full array of business matters including labor and employment issues, wage and hour compliance, Department of Labor audits, reductions in force and plant closings, workplace diversity and non-discrimination, sexual harassment prevention and compliance, employee leave requests under the FMLA, and disability accommodations. In addition, Joe works with clients on preparing employment agreements, non-competition agreements, employee handbooks and policies, and other documents that are essential to maintaining corporate best practices in the area of labor and employment law. Joe also represents management in administrative proceedings before the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC), Florida Commission on Human Relations (FCHR) and the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB).
