Overview

Kassandra Rebull is an experienced U.S. immigration and nationality law attorney with the Immigration Practice Group at Gunster. She specializes in a diverse range of business immigration matters, advising corporate and individual clients seeking nonimmigrant and immigrant visas to advance their businesses and careers in the United States. A fluent speaker of both English and Spanish, Kassandra represents clients in preparing immigration petitions submitted for adjudication by the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services and by the U.S. Department of State in consular visa matters. Her expertise encompasses a spectrum of visa categories, including:

- O-1 and EB-1 Extraordinary Ability Individuals. Recognizing exceptional talent across diverse fields, Kassandra champions O-1 and EB-1 petitions for individuals with extraordinary ability in their field, ensuring their contributions enrich American society and sectors critical to the United States.
- H-1B and E-3 Specialty Occupation Workers. With an acute understanding of the needs of both employers and highly skilled professionals, Kassandra guides clients through the E-3 visa and H-1B process, including the H-1B visa lottery, promoting economic growth through specialized talent acquisition.

- L-1 Intracompany Transferees and EB-1 Multinational Executives and Managers. Cassandra facilitates the transfer of key professionals within multinational corporations, ensuring they can continue to contribute to the success of their U.S. operations.
- USMCA / TN Professionals. Cassandra provides key guidance to Canadian and Mexican professionals seeking TN visas, facilitating their temporary work assignments in the United States.
- PERM Labor Certification. Cassandra is versed in the intricacies of the PERM Labor Certification process, facilitating the employment-based green card journey for her clients.

Kassandra also specializes in family-based immigration matters, such as marriage-based green card applications and naturalization applications, providing tailored solutions that address the unique circumstances and objectives of her clients. In partnership with her clients, Kassandra guides individuals through the intricate process of obtaining lawful permanent residence and citizenship in the United States.

Given her commitment to excellence and a client-centric approach, Kassandra understands that immigration solutions must align with individual aspirations and corporate objectives. To do this, she works closely with clients to develop personalized strategies, providing legal counsel that empowers them to achieve their goals. With expertise, dedication, and passion for immigration law, Kassandra strives to serve as a trusted advocate and partner with her clients as they navigate the complexities of the U.S. immigration system.

Prior to joining Gunster, Kassandra worked as an immigration associate at a national law firm, where she represented clients in employment-based and family-based immigration matters. She prepared immigrant and nonimmigrant visa applications for intracompany transferees, specialized occupation workers, individuals with extraordinary ability, and TN professionals. Kassandra routinely represented clients before U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services in their immigration case interviews.
