Overview

Born and raised in Miami, Michael Green is a shareholder who joined the firm in 2011. He serves as vice-chair of the firm's Business Litigation practice and is a member of the Creditor Rights & Bankruptcy and the Intellectual Property Litigation practice groups. Michael is also a member of the firm's Associate Mentoring Committee.

Michael practices in state and federal court and has experience in an array of civil litigation matters including brokerage commission disputes, commercial landlord/tenant disputes, creditor representation in bankruptcy proceedings (including adversary proceedings and bankruptcy appeals), homeowners' and condominium association disputes, non-compete and restrictive covenant disputes, and property rights litigation.

In the area of intellectual property litigation, Michael’s experience includes prosecuting and defending misappropriation of trade secret claims, as well as matters involving the Vessel Hull Design Protection Act.

Michael has handled evidentiary injunction hearings, and litigated cases to conclusion including acting as the lead lawyer at both a jury and bench trial, and he has presented oral argument to the Third District Court of Appeal for the State of Florida.

Michael is also proficient with e-discovery issues, and he has devoted significant time to researching and analyzing the Stored Communications Act, and navigating the task of seeking and obtaining discovery from internet service providers like Google.
